City Okays Tentative Budget

A $334,148 budget was tentatively adopted Monday night by the Canyon City Commission. The commission decided to delay adoption until after the city election April 1 to give the incoming commission a chance to make any changes it desires.

The budget for the 1958 fiscal year, which begins April 1, shows an increase of $132,445 over the 1957 budget, but operating costs in general will be down slightly. The increase will come mostly because of the completion of the new water supply system which will come in the new fiscal year.

The commission also adopted a salary increase of approximately five per cent for all city employees, reflecting the increase in the cost of living in the nation. The raises given the employees will cost the city about $3200 more for the year, and will be effective as of March 1.

Two new items appear in this year's budget. They are a full time fireman and another police patrolman.

Three city departments will have smaller budgets next year than this year. They are Administration, a reduction of $1190; Health and Sanitation, a reduction of $3779; and Park, a reduction of $1416.

The rest of the departments will have increases. They are Police, $3143; Fire, $5122; Swimming Pool, $72; Street, $2143; Sewer, $789; and Water, $127,576.

The major increase in the budget comes in the water department. An additional $103,921 will be spent on the new water main and the debt service requirements have risen $31,198 over last year. The regular operational expense for the water department will be lower, however; a reduction from $65,396 to $57,853.

Two items have caused the Police Department budget to rise from $19,832 to $22,975. They are the addition of a patrolman and the replacement of the 1955 patrol car.

The Fire Department budget shows an increase from $8506 to $13,628, caused by the addition of a full-time fireman and planned expenditures of an additional $1000 for hose and other equipment.

The Street Department's rise from $53,315 to $55,449 comes from the additional cost of street lights.

Expected receipts for 1958 include $91,820 in taxes, $80,000 from water billings and $33,000 in sewer billings. The new budget shows an unappropriated surplus of $3112.29, provided all receipts and expenditures are as expected.

The tax revenue expected next year is an increase over both last year's budget and the actual collections for 11 months of the fiscal year. Last year's budget shows an expected $80,755 in taxes, collections for the first 11 months have been $81,339.64, and the new budget shows $91,820. City Secretary Andy Boggs said the expected increase will come from new buildings erected during the past year.

At the end of this fiscal year, Boggs expects the city's bank balances to have $12,986.33 in the general fund, $18,501.09 in the interest and sinking fund and $110,912.87 in the 1957 bond fund.

His forecast for the year calls for receipts of $194,723 in the general fund and $44,992 in the interest and sinking fund. General fund expenditures will be $230,179, interest and sinking fund expenditures will be $44,880, and bond fund expenditures will be $103,949.

Boggs expects the real property tax roll valuations to increase $486,500 and the personal property roll to increase $150,000, for a total assessed valuations of $6,653,650.

The valuations in 1955 were $5,275,280, in 1956 they were $5,663,450, and in 1957 the tax roll showed valuations of $6,017,150.

Campbell Rites Held Sunday

Funeral services for Robert Leo Campbell, retired rancher, were conducted at 2:30 p. m. Sunday in the First Presbyterian Church by the Rev. Don Price, pastor, and the Rev. J. R. Sharp.

Interment was in Dreamland Cemetery under the direction of Warren-LaGrone Funeral Home.

Survivors include his wife, Frances, two children, Byron Campbell of Amarillo and Mrs. Charles W. Bennett of Kansas City, Mo.

Pall bearers were Roland Black, Glenn Allred, Wayne Higgins, Cecil Oglesby, Clarence E. Thompson and Earl Norman.

Mr. Campbell, 70, died Thursday at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo following a lengthy illness. He had lived at Wildorado until September, 1957, when he moved to 4222 Emil in Amarillo.

Mr. Campbell, who played for the Canyon Cowboys, a semi-pro baseball team, was offered several major league contracts, which he rejected in favor of ranching.

A star football player in 1914 for Trinity University of San Antonio, Mr. Campbell was graduated from Southwestern University at Weatherford, Okla. He also attended West Texas State College.

Mr. Campbell served on the board of the trustees of the First Presbyterian Church here, was a lifetime member of the Masonic Lodge and was a member of the American Hereford Breeders Association.

Will Spring Get Here?

This is typical of the scenes in this country this spring—and it was taken just last week and not back in January. Snow and rain have given Canyon a total of 1.93 inches of moisture this month, and .22 of an inch came from snow that fell since early last Wednesday morning.

County Check Brings Cemetery Transfer Nearer to Completion

The Randall County Commissioners Court Monday paid $3155.97 to the Dreamland Cemetery Association as a finish to the county's part in caring for the cemetery.

The money was part of an agreement between the cemetery association and the commissioners, made when the county began proceedings to turn Dreamland over to a private group. Part of the money, $1655.97, was the remaining amount owed by the county under terms of a contract whereby the county would install a sprinkler irrigation system in the cemetery. The remainder of the money is six months salary for a caretaker.

Water wells were completed recently for the irrigation system, which the county had agreed to finance up to $3300. Forming a triangle at the west end of the cemetery, the wells cost $1,644.03.

The offer to pay the money directly to the cemetery association who would then let contracts for the completion of the sprinkler system, was made March 10 in a meeting of the commissioners court. It was accepted by the board of directors of the association last Friday night.

In the board meeting, the contract for equipment and pumps for the water system was let to M. A. Hollabaugh of Amarillo and the Peerless Pump Company of Amarillo. Work will begin as soon as weather permits.

A report prepared by R. B. Allen, secretary of the board, states that since Aug. 1, 1957, the cemetery association has collected $19,020.03 and have another $10,875.82 pledged.

Some of these donations have been made directly to the trust fund of the perpetual care fund, which is on deposit in an Amarillo bank.

"It is the ultimate aim to build this perpetual care fund to adequately maintain the cemetery," said Jerry LaGrone, of the Warren-LaGrone Funeral Home, who is acting as manager for the association.

Some persons have paid donations to the fund in a lump sum, but most are paying their contributions in monthly payments.

"There are still a lot of people we have been unable to contact about our plans because of the inaccuracy of the cemetery records. Anyone who might have information is certainly welcome to come by to look at the books," LaGrone said.

LaGrone also invited interested persons to come by the funeral home to see a landscape drawing for Dreamland.

Chamber of Commerce Plans Forum For Community Planning in April

A community forum to advance ideas for community betterment will be conducted in April by the Canyon Chamber of Commerce under direction of Ralph Duncan, community services director for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Duncan met with the Canyon chamber board of directors last week to begin planning for the forum. He has played a part in starting 71 community forums in the West Texas area.

The purpose of such forums is to set up committees representing every segment of community life who will meet in regular sessions to plan civic development. Duncan told the board that criticism of chambers of commerce was heard often from segments of the community which are not represented on the membership.

Sometimes, he said, such criticism is valid and bears on a civic defect which should be corrected. Ordinarily the criticism continues, but nothing is done because it was not brought to the official notice of the chamber, Duncan said.

The community forum was developed to provide every element in the community with a voice before the chamber of commerce. Such criticism as is valid and which refers to an ill which may be corrected will then receive serious attention.

The present plan is for each of a series of committees representing all the community to meet in extended session on April 17 and 18.

At that time the members of the committees will have an open discussion of ways and means to improve Canyon.

Duncan said that the community forum plan assures a constructively balanced civic program, stimulates chamber of commerce interest and discovers new and interested workers.

Most important of all, Duncan said, it sets the stage for community teamwork. It discovers the wants and needs of citizens by an open discussion of community problems.

According to Duncan, it makes each citizen feel that he is a part of the chamber of commerce and that the program evolved is his program.

Participation in the committee discussions is not limited to members of the chamber of commerce. Any citizen may attend the meetings and discuss problems with the assurance that he will receive a respectful and attentive hearing.

The success of the forum plan depends on attendance at group meetings, Duncan said. He urged that everyone attend the committee of his choice.

Committee groups will be announced later, according to Chamber President Clarence Eugene Thompson.

PHSPA Schedules Top Newspaper Figures for Annual Meet Tuesday

Two of the state's outstanding newspaper figures will be speakers for the 24th annual convention of the Panhandle High School Press Association here at West Texas State College Tuesday.

They are Margaret Mayer, Austin correspondent for the Dallas Times-Herald, Amarillo Globe-News and other Texas dailies, and Ernest Joiner, editor of the Ralls Banner, the state's "most quoted editor."

Miss Mayer will speak at the convention's general session at 10:30 a. m. in the Administration Building auditorium, and Joiner will address the luncheon in the cafeteria at 1:15 p. m., to close the meeting.

About 30 Panhandle area high schools are expected to send some 300 delegates to the sessions, which get underway at 9 a. m. with registration. Coffee and donuts will be served in WT's home economics dining room preceding a talent show at 9:30.

A welcome address will be given by WT President James P. Cornette and Glen Castleberry of Perryton, president of PHSPA, will preside. Section meetings for newspaper and yearbook staffs will be conducted by Amarillo and Pampa high school staffs. Amarillo's La Airosa staff will give pointers in making a yearbook a prizewinner, and the Little Harvester newspaper staff of Pampa will discuss production of a high school newspaper.

Campaigns for officers for the 1958-59 school year will conclude morning sessions.

Awards in the association's annual contests in newspapers, annuals, and news writing, will be presented following Joiner's talk. First place winners are awarded trophies, many of which are sponsored by daily and weekly newspapers of the Panhandle.

An award to "the outstanding high school journalist of the Panhandle," selected for work on school publications, will be given in memory of Dorinda E. Bond by the Amarillo Globe-News. Miss Bond was a sponsor of PHSPA and a teacher in Amarillo schools.

Other newspapers sponsoring trophies are The Canyon News, Hereford Brand, Ochiltree County Herald, Tulia Herald, and the Borger News-Herald.

Judges for PHSPA's contests were Palmer Hoyt, editor and publisher of the Denver Post, and members of his staff.

Seven-Day Fire Contract Okayed

A seven-day extension of a short-term fire contract between the City of Canyon and Randall County was negotiated Monday by the commissioners of the two governing bodies.

The contract, which calls for county payment of $25 per fire call outside the city limit with an additional payment of $5 per mile for each mile over five, will expire next Monday night.

In the intervening period, the city will prepare an estimate of costs of operation of the department. The estimate will be given to the commissioners court in answer to the county's offer to negotiate a contract calling for percentage payments.

Last week the county gave the city a letter which said the county would like to negotiate a contract under which the county would pay for county fire calls on a basis of the percentage of calls outside the city. The percentage would be divided into the costs of operating the department to arrive at the county's payment.

The letter stated that the two commissions would have to agree on what constitutes the expense of maintaining the fire department.

The city's estimate will be in answer to that statement.

The county was without fire protection from Canyon from March 10 to March 17, after a 30-day contract expired and before the seven-day extension was granted. No county fire calls were received during that time.

Truck Breakdown Breaks Down Lions Sale Broom Peddling Comes Up in Near Future

The Lions Club broom sale scheduled for last Monday night was delayed because of a breakdown of the truck bringing the brooms to Canyon, Rex Reeves, president of the club, said this week.

The truck made it to Canyon Tuesday, and left a consignment of goods for the club to sell.

Reeves said the members would make a house-to-house canvass in the near future, probably within a week.

The brooms are stored in the county jail building, and anyone wishing to purchase any of them may do so by contacting Bill Wilson in the sheriff's office.

It Outgrew Its Name

In the troubled days before the Civil War, a young Pennsylvania lawyer who had cleaned up $20,000 in a railroad scheme, saw the possibilities of building a railroad from the Missouri River, where the tracks ended, to Santa Fe—a fabled city mostly unknown to easterners, but reputed to be a trade center that could make a man rich if he could provide cheaper transportation.

The lawyer, Cyrus Kurtz Holliday, left his wife at home, traveled west and took up residence in Lawrence, a small settlement on the Kaw River, 50 miles west of Kansas City, in the year 1854. In Kansas in those years, there was a great fever to establish cities—in spite of the fact that the metropolis in the area was Kansas City, as it was spelled then, and it had a population of 500 persons.

Holliday caught that fever, though, and with a new-found friend, Enoch Chase, and a few other men, went down the Kaw in the fall of '54 and laid out a town on the south bank of the river at a place called Papan's Ferry. Having no surveying instruments, the party laid out the townsites with a watch-compass and some twine. Characteristically, the party set aside a 20-acre site for the state capitol and declared that the Kansas seat of government would be there. Then men argued, then finally named the place Topeka.

Holliday had apparently forgotten his railroad dream and busied himself in politics, townsite promotion, farming and the bloody fight between the "Free Soilers" and the "Border Ruffians," on the side of the "Free Soilers." In 1855, he was placed in command of the Second Kansas Regiment and gained the title of colonel. The slave-abolitionist fight continued to boil, but thousands of people felt the pull of the West and crossed the Big River.

Eventually, railroads began jumping the river, too, with little twin streaks of rust easing across the prairie between towns. Merchants in towns 20 miles apart would meet and make big plans for rails between their towns.

Somehow Col. Holliday regained his dream of a railroad to Santa Fe. And in 1859, while a member of the legislature, he wrote up a charter for a railroad from Topeka to Atchison, 50 miles away. He dreamed further, and included in the charter a projected line that ran from Atchison to Topeka then south and west "to such a point on the southern or western boundary of Kansas Territory in the direction of Santa Fe as may be convenient and suitable." Since that took in quite a bit of territory, he just added another portion which gave permission to run a branch "to any points on the southern boundary of Kansas Territory in the direction of the Gulf of Mexico."

Citizens of both Atchison and Topeka caught the fire of Col. Holliday and raised money to start construction. But in June, 1859, a drought hit Kansas and that was that. However, Holliday wasn't to be denied, so he and a handful of Topeka and Atchison citizens—13 in all—organized their company as the Atchison and Topeka Railroad between Sept. 15 and 17, 1859, with the colonel as president.

The company stood stock still, accomplishing little but trying through the years to raise enough money to begin despite the Civil War. By 1863, it seemed that the North would win the war and the company bestirred itself to get moving. Some of the stockholders met in Topeka and talked over possibilities for expansion—even before they had anything to expand. From that meeting came a change in the name of the company to the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad.

Finally, with the aid of the promise of land grants and with money raised from this source and that, construction was started on Washington Street in Topeka, with ground-breaking ceremonies shortly before noon on Oct. 30, 1868. Senator Edmund Ross, the man whose vote saved President Andrew Johnson from impeachment, made a short speech of dedication and Col. Holliday bravely told how the rails one day would reach westward to Santa Fe and eastward to Kansas City. He expanded to forecast that the line would stretch southward into Mexico to the Pacific, and into the Rocky mountains.

As might be expected the first rails headed neither northeast toward Atchison or southwest toward Santa Fe. Indeed, they went east—across the Kaw River to connect with the Kansas Pacific so construction materials could be obtained. On March 31, 1869, the bridge was completed and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Rail Road was ready to head away from Topeka.

By mid-summer the rails ran seven miles out toward Newton, the other way from Atchison, and the company decided to do a little celebrating with a picnic special to Wakarusa—the Santa Fe's first train.

The Santa Fe continued building to the west and south, reaching Newton some 73 miles away by the end of 1871. The people of Atchison weren't happy about the situation, though, since they had helped found the company but were not served by it. So the company doubled back and started work from both Atchison and Topeka in the fall of 1871. The line was finished in the following spring and the first train between the two places ran from Topeka to Atchison on April 24, 1874.

The Santa Fe kept the last city in its name in mind, though, and its main work was toward the southwest. The line was built to Pueblo, Colo., then south over Raton Pass and down to Springer. It ran along the edge of the fabled Maxwell Grant to Las Vegas and chugged up Glorieta Pass to Lamy, just south of Santa Fe.

By then, the company's engineers knew that Santa Fe would never be able to support a main line because of the expense in building over the mountains and because the trade to Santa Fe had died. But for sentiment and other reasons, a branch line was built from Lamy to Santa Fe, arriving Feb. 9, 1880. For two months, until April 10, 1879, Santa Fe was the end of the track, but then it became just a branch line when the main line went out from Lamy toward Albuquerque.

But the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Rail Road reached from Atchison to Topeka and to Santa Fe.

The line kept building in other directions. In February, 1884 a line from Emporia, south of Topeka, to Kansas City was linked up to become known as the "Ottawa Cutoff," the present main line of the company and both Topeka and Atchison were then off the main line and on a sort of branch line.

The Santa Fe grew and grew in many directions, to become the largest railroad in the West—reaching from Chicago to the Pacific and to the Gulf of Mexico—crossing and criss-crossing the area it served.

Some years ago, the Santa Fe stopped passenger train service from Lamy to Santa Fe, substituting the practice of detaining passengers at Lamy and taking them to Santa Fe by bus.

And just last week, the Santa Fe abandoned the last regularly-scheduled passenger train from Topeka to Atchison, thus cutting off the front and back of its name. Topeka, itself, it not so well served by passenger trains as it once was. The last passenger train between Atchison and Topeka ran last Saturday.

Four westbound passenger trains and five eastbound run through Topeka—the rest use the Ottawa Cutoff, some to run on the north line through Pueblo to California, and the others to run on the south line through Amarillo to California.

The Santa Fe outgrew its original name. All three of the cities mentioned are still served by freight trains, but the passenger service to two of them is gone. Reasons for the change are numerous—automobiles, airplanes, busses, high costs, government regulation.

The building of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe spanned a period of enthusiasm, romance, foresight, dreams and work that seems to be gone, also. The Santa Fe opened a land that became the heartland of the nation. To it we owe our existence today, and to it we owe a certain amount of our later-day heritage.

The Santa Fe's past was exciting, its present may seem hum-drum, and we hope that its future will include forceful leadership that will take us from the maze of our day-to-day existence to times that shine as bright as do the reflections of the sun off the top of the shining, twin rails.

Memphis visitors once more have the opportunity to ride on an excursion steamer. The boat isn't nearly as large as the "Princess" was but it is trim and neat-looking. A steamboat glides along, pushing three large barges and kicking up waves.

From the railroad bridge, a curving ripple in the river can be seen; to the eye of a pilot, it tells a story — perhaps a sand-bar.

And I viewed a shrine — the home of Elvis Presley. It is a new brick mansion, two stories, back from the highway. There is a high fence; also a big iron gate which is open but a guard prevents entry. Elvis' figure is shown in wrought iron on the gate.

Ten cars were parked in front of the estate and the occupants waited, on the chance that their idol might appear.

Down the walkway came a young man with sideburns but it was soon apparent that he was too bulky — perhaps one of the musicians. By the time we drove on, after several minutes, four more cars had stopped.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

Last Thursday, March 13, Jowell School was the scene of a Conservation District meeting with a community social thrown in as good measure.

J. W. Spencer, chairman of the Randall-Potter Soil Conservation District, and Mrs. Spencer were present. Spencer acted as master of ceremonies, introducing guests and speakers.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Conatser, who live southeast of Canyon, were present. Conatser is vice chairman of the Randall-Potter SCD.

Joe G. Batson, work unit conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service, gave a brief explanation of how his office serves the farmers and ranchers in the Randall-Potter SCD. Batson also explained the Great Plains Conservation Program and how farmers and ranchers could participate.

Doyle Thomas, manager of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office, gave a brief account of ACP and other programs that his office offers. Thomas emphasized the urgency and need for more and better conservation work in this and all other soil conservation districts.

County Agricultural Agent John Brazzil gave a short account of the Agricultural Extension Service and the services offered by his office. Brazzil showed a group of colored slides that were mostly of local conservation work, mostly good and just a few bad — to show how not to get a stand of grass, along with those who did the job right.

Mrs. Wayne Hildreth, Home Demonstration Agent of the Agricultural Extension Service, was present but did not participate on the program.

"Pete" Leavitt gave an interesting account of a district Farm Bureau meeting that he attended recently in Amarillo. Leavitt invited anyone interested to attend the Farm Bureau meetings in Canyon at any time.

Spencer expressed his thanks to the people of the Jowell Community for the use of their building for the meeting place. He also expressed the thanks of all present for the delicious refreshments furnished by the women of the community.

NEWS LETTER FROM CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS OF THE 18TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

H. R. 8002
These initials and numerals do not mean a great deal to many of you, but they represent probably the first hotly contested bill that has come before the present Congress. Although only two days were consumed in the debate and in the passage of the bill, every moment of this time was taken up with heated argument.

The bill, in its original form, proposed to limit the power of the Congress to appropriate more money during one year than could be expended during that year. This sounds very good on its face and would certainly appeal to everyone if such practice could save money. If it were possible to conduct the government's business on that basis to the best interests of all, I do not think there would have been one vote against the measure when it came up in the House.

However, there is a keen division of opinion on the subject. The proponents of the measure argue that by adopting this procedure, it would make it impossible for the several agencies of the government to carry over appropriated but unspent funds from year to year. They further contend that this would enable the Congress to channel unspent funds into other projects and require less demand upon the taxpayers for additional sums.

Certainly we would all agree that the bill should be passed if this was the case.

On the other hand, it was argued that the adoption of this bill would measurably curtail the freedom of movement on the Department of Defense, so necessary in fighting the missile - development - cold-war now in progress.

It was argued that the adoption of the measure would void the contracting authority of the government in matters that could not be concluded within one year; that the development and production of many items in our armament program, such as jet planes of all types, many types of guns and equipment, atomic items, and especially missiles and associated items, could not be manufactured and delivered within a 12 months' period and, therefore, these long-lead time items had to be the objects of firm contracts.

In this connection it was contended that the only way such contracts could be firm would be for the appropriation of the money.

Spencer further emphasized that the Randall-Potter Soil Conservation District exists for only one reason and that is to better agriculture within the district. Spencer asked the farmers and ranchers of the Jowell Community to let the supervisors know if there was any needed equipment that the district could help obtain. The Randall-Potter Soil Conservation District has already purchased two grass-seed drills and plans to buy more equipment to further the cause of conservation.

Like a Housewife Hates Dust on the Furniture

Phillips 66 Dealers take a lot of pride in being good housekeepers. They have a housewife's hatred of untidiness. They keep their stations clean, including those all-important rest rooms.

They'll go all out to keep your car clean, too. "Whiskbrooming" the interior of your car is one of those extra little services your Phillips 66 Dealer is glad to perform. And he'll clean the windows for you... all the way around.

This obsession with cleanliness is part and parcel of our policy of "Hospitality on the Highway." You benefit from it at any station which displays the famous orange and black Phillips 66 Shield.

money at the time the contract was made, so that the department having the responsibility of carrying out the contract would see to it that the cost would be held within the limits and would not be coming back to Congress for more money than was estimated but not appropriated.

Several amendments were offered and one was adopted which actually constituted a substitute for the bill. It placed in Congress certain powers of limiting the amount of expenditures of the several departments each year which is, of course, very good.

Whether or not the amendment went far enough to effect measurable savings is difficult to determine.

I felt that the bill should be returned to the committee for some additional study on this phase and then returned to the House for approval. However, the House did not choose to give further study to the measure in this particular and wanted to either pass or refuse the bill as amended. Under the circumstances I voted for the measure, because I think it will afford an opportunity to explore an area whereby some savings can be effected.

However, very close vigilance should be maintained in the application of this law so that immediate corrective steps can be taken in the event the stepped up missile program is even slightly jeopardized.

Other Controversial Issues

Congress is now moving into that period of each session when the hotly contested issues begin to come to the floor. Up until now all of the work has been progressing in the several committees, perfecting the particular bills to be debated. One of these will be the Alaskan Statehood Bill.

Efforts are being made at the present time to push this through at an early date. The Hawaiian Bill is still in committee, but it is understood the Alaskan Bill will not be brought before the Congress until the committee passes favorably upon the Hawaiian Bill and recommends its passage. There is little question that the Hawaiian Bill will be approved by the committee, because the Alaskan Bill was approved last year, and I believe that only six of us voted against it.

There will probably be a few more votes in committee against the Hawaiian Bill, but it will pass out of the committee with a good margin.

The Reciprocal Trade Bill, which I have mentioned several times in these newsletters, will probably be the hottest issue before the House this session. This bitter controversy could be avoided if the Administration would take some corrective steps under its present powers to protect many businesses and industries in this country, including the oil business. Oil imports have now put the oil business in this country at its lowest ebb in many years.

The Foreign Aid Bill is another issue that will meet with heated debate. There is little chance of avoiding a head-on collision, insofar as this bill is concerned, because of the deep feeling of both the proponents and opponents.

Top Award for Understatement

The highest award for a masterpiece of understatement goes to Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson for a remark he made in a recent news conference and which I quote: "If our critics say we are doing too much for the farmer, I don't agree."

I am sure this is one statement on which Benson and the farmers fully agree.

Young Scientists

Recently I've been reading a lot about our need for new scientists and the apathy on the part of our young people. The high school science club asked me to meet with them the other night and I've got news for some of those pessimistic writers.

We discussed astronomy and astrophysics. We talked about Einstein's theory of the curvature of space and the expanding universe. One young man applied the kinetic law of gasses to the atmosphere of planets; another the green-house effect on Venus.

To see teenagers showing that much real interest and enthusiasm in science certainly renews one's faith in the future.

Colonel Charles Goodnight Story

Our Telephone Time television program on April 1, will feature the story of Charles Goodnight, prominent Texas rancher and first man to drive cattle overland. The story will be entitled "The Trailblazer."

Mr. Goodnight was among the first to be chosen for the National Cowboy Hall of Fame of which our own J. Evetts Haley is a trustee.

Need Privacy?

Have you ever wished you could have a little more privacy on some of your telephone calls? Well, there's an easy way to solve your problem. Put an extension phone in your bedroom or kitchen.

You'll have privacy on your calls and you'll find extension phones are convenient, too. No more running from one end of the house to the other to answer the phone, only to find the caller has hung up. You'll be surprised at the number of steps conveniently located phones can save you in a day.

And an added touch for the housewife with good tastes... a phone in color. We now have phones in nine bright colors plus black to blend or contrast with any colors in your home.

Extension phones are low cost, too. Here in Canyon an extension costs you only $.75 a month plus a small, one-time installation charge. Just call the business office and pick your extension telephone in color today.

One-Third Off!

No, we're not having a sale "for a limited time only." It's an everyday offer to save you one-third of the cost when you call Long Distance station-to-station.

Long Distance charges for station-to-station calls are about one-third lower than for person-to-person service.

Here's a sample: A person-to-person call from Canyon to Lubbock costs $1.00. It's only 60c when you call station-to-station. You save 40c. It's like getting one call FREE for every two you pay for. So, why not plan now to make all your Long Distance calls station-to-station?

Call by number. It's twice as fast.

Fine Foods

By VERN SANFORD

It has long been said that the moon is made of green cheese. Now scientists everywhere seem to be determined to find out if it's so.

Army, navy, air corps and civilian experts apparently are scrapping among themselves to see who gets there first.

Anyway, whether it is the Sputnik or the USNik, the costs so far have gone higher than the devices. It's true that all of us want to know what's in outer space. We're not complaining about the costs, for all of us are interested in the rest of the universe.

Also there are a good many of us who want to know more about what's going on "down below." Fishermen in particular are interested in the creatures of the deep. So, maybe you'd like to hear about a little experiment that is going on along the Texas coast. There, aquatic biologic scientists are trying to find ways to create an artificial snapper reef.

They have an adequate budget. Not as big as the nuclear scientists, but adequate. The Game & Fish Commission has earmarked some $7,000 for the venture. This money will buy a couple hundred old automobile bodies. These bodies will be linked together with a piece of oil field cable and dropped into the Gulf of Mexico at the 10 fathom curve near the whistling buoy off Port Aransas.

Tentative coast guard approval already has been given. The old autos must be planted where they will be a little too deep to affect navigation, and away from the range of shrimpers' nets.

This will be one of the most interesting experiments ever undertaken in Texas to increase offshore fishing for red snapper, and other saltwater fighters. If it works, other artificial reefs will be created from time to time to improve fishing conditions along the Texas coast.

This little experiment may make the world a better place in which to live — rather than one to get out of.

At the present time snapper fishing is done mostly from party boats at ranges from 15 to 100 miles out in the Gulf of Mexico. There has been a little snapper fishing around the oil derricks in the offshore waters. These derricks are indicative that snapper can be caught around the artificial reefs.

It is hoped that the old automobile bodies will work like a brush shelter and serve as a hideaway for red snapper, ling, pompano, barracuda and other smaller fish. That of course means that the big ones will be lurking nearby. Result: good fishing for everyone.

Alabama has tried the idea with some success. If it works in Texas our coastal fishing will be much better, because these artificial reefs will afford cover not only for snapper, but for many other good fighting fish.

It might also be a place to get rid of thousands of old automobile bodies—which can't be shipped to the moon.

It has been suggested by some that old auto bodies might be used in fresh water lakes to provide cover for fish.

This would be very dangerous. Our lakes in Texas are not large enough. Even a few old automobile bodies dumped into Texas lakes would produce navigation hazards we don't need. Let's keep them clean.

If there is any tendency to dump auto bodies in the lakes in your area, then it would be wise for municipalities to pass ordinances, as soon as possible, to stop it.

Speaking of ordinances, what about asking your city to provide safe boat launching ramps in waters controlled by it? The City of Austin has just completed a new one within the city limits, on Lake Austin. It will help relieve the situation greatly.

Bass Tournament Dates
If your fishing is of championship qualities then you will be interested in knowing that the Texas Bass Tournament will be held this year on three of the Highland Lakes, near Austin.

For several years this annual bass tournament has attracted many fishermen to Lake Whitney. Moving it to the Highland Lakes will draw more fishermen, especially from Southwest Texas.

The tournament is scheduled for May 22-25 on Buchanan, Inks and Granite Shoals Lakes. Tentative headquarters will be at the Inks State Park.

Earl Golding of the Waco Tribune and Russell Tinsley of the Austin American will be tournament managers. Entries will be accepted after April 1, at either newspaper.

Last year Ray Creel and Kerman Findley of Keene won the team trophy.

Check Your Lines
At the risk of becoming redundant we want to remind fishermen again to check your lines. Too many big fine fish are lost every year because we take a chance on a line that has been used for two or three years and we think it still is good.

If you decide your line is good, then at least take off the first 10 feet. This is the part which gets the most strain, running through the guides, hanging in brush and getting much more usage than the rest of the line.

There is nothing that makes a man feel quite so bad as to have a line failure just about the time he is fixing to boat a big bass. It isn't worth it when you can get a new line for so little by comparison to your cost on other equipment.

Outboards With Thermostats
Temperature control long has been used on automobiles. Now comes Evinrude with a thermostat on its Lark and Starflite outboards.

Temperature control means better performance and a saving on spark plugs, fuel and oil. Also considerably less motor wear, as the motor will run at an even temperature at all speeds.

Evinrude regulates cooling capacity by placing a thermostat in the cooling system. Control is made more efficient by a recirculating system which maintains constant temperature, discharging water only when it is heated to 150 degrees.

Texhoma Gets a Plug
An article describing boating and fishing facilities at Lake Texhoma appears in this month's issue of Popular Boating. Including is an invitation from Gov. Price Daniel, to visit the vacation spot.

Writer of the story is L. A. Wilke, one of the co-authors of Outdoors in Texas.

The Eagle's Tale

31st Year

Published by The Canyon News for Canyon High School

What is the Future?

Remember when we were young and had big dreams of being the first person to land on the moon?

That was long ago, wasn't it? Today we aren't wishing any longer to reach outer space for we already have. Satellites are now flying through the air at unheard of speeds.

We used to say, "If you had your choice of any place in the world where would you go?" Let's not be old-fashioned. Today we are not only thinking of the world, but the universe. Now we'll be saying, "Do you want to run up to Mars for a weekend with me?"

Times are changing, we used to dream about the moon, but not any more. Our dreams are now realities. Think of the little boys, who rather than dreaming about traveling to Mars are going to be going there. What are little boys going to dream about in the future? We have conquered space, will we have to conquer the planets now?

Perhaps their dreams will be as Columbus' were. They will design, imagine and perhaps carry out plans to start a colony on some distant planet.

Another world has been discovered and much can be achieved if we prepare and plan ahead to take advantage of our opportunity as they come to us.

Twirping at CHS

"But, I can't, Agnes, I'm broke!" said he.

"Oh, well, the girl has to pay," said she.

"Gee, swell, I'll be over at 8, okay?"

"No, I'll be over for you 'cause it is Twirp Week, dig?"

"Yea, I catch."

Many such conversations over party lines and in the halls of CHS can be heard March 8-14.

The boys do not have to worry about where they are going to get enough money for a date, the girls have the responsibility.

Some of the girls decided the next time a boy took them out they would remember their waistlines instead of their stomachs. They are learning how it feels to go home with an empty purse.

Senior Rings Will Have New Design

Senior rings for the next four years will be of a rectangular design. This decision was reached by a committee, composed of 17 members from the 8th, 9th, 10th and 11th grades which met during the second period, Tuesday, March 4.

Mr. W. B. Harris, representative of the Southern Engraving Co., of Houston, met with the committee and assisted them in judging designs submitted.

Two types of this ring were selected. One consists of a solid gold design, while the other includes a blue stone design.

Mr. Harris will have his company to make sketches of these two types of rings and they will later be displayed in the trophy case. Students in the various classes may then observe them and decide which they like the best and express their opinions to their elected committee representatives who will make the final decision. The cost of the rings is not known but will be released when the designs of the rings arrive.

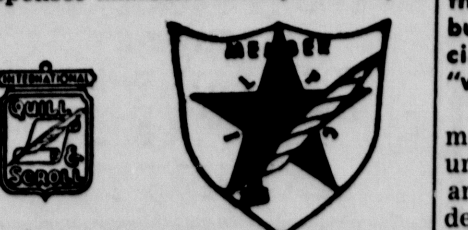

Those serving on the committee are the following: Eighth grade, Ronnie Harris, Virginia Crouse and Clark de Schweinitz; freshmen, Norma Henderson, Jerry Blythe and Sherman McCarter; sophomores, Jerry Richardson, Wilma Burkett and Mike Poole; juniors, Larry Brotherton, Dwayne Ledbetter and Mayla Atkinson. Mr. J. E. Miller, CHS principal, worked with the committee also.

Theodore Roosevelt was the first American hero to have ticker tape dumped on him as he rode in a parade.

Alan Hanks Wins Science Award, Plans Future as Chemical Engineer

Alan Hanks, senior, has been selected to receive the bronze medal of the Bausch and Lomb Honorary Science Award. He was chosen on the basis of his studies in science and math courses, having completed every course in each of these fields offered in Canyon High. The medal will be presented to him at the awards assembly at the end of the school semester.

Alan has taken general science, chemistry, physics, biology, algebra, plane geometry and solid geometry. He has maintained an A plus average in science and an A average in math.

He has played four years of football and has been outstanding in sports. He is a member of the National Honor Society and was named class favorite.

Alan's hobbies include fly tying, making fishing flies, fishing and hunting. He has played the steel guitar for a long time. He plans to enter in the debate and slide rule Interscholastic League contests. He plans to be a chemical engineer.

The Bausch and Lomb Award was founded 25 years ago. About 110,000 medals have been awarded to 6200 secondary schools in the U. S. since then.

While sponsoring this award, the Bausch and Lomb Optical Co. has discovered the following statistics: 35 per cent of these award winning students said that it influenced their decision to attend college; 36 per cent believed it aided them in selecting scientific careers; 94 per cent actually attended college; 44 per cent of those attending college went on to receive two or more degrees; and 54 per cent were Honor Society members in college.

Founders of the award believe that America's scientific leadership is a matter of national significance. They contend that our industrial progress, standard of living and dependent upon science and technology.

Science Students Note Health Film

"In Sickness and in Health," a film concerned mostly with the disease of multiple sclerosis, was shown to science students at different periods March 6 by Mr. Les Kilgore, youth sponsor in Amarillo.

Mr. Kilgore is showing this film to nearly all of the schools in the Panhandle for the purpose of educating the youth about this disease.

Multiple sclerosis is a disease of the central nervous system that affects a portion of the brain and the spinal chord. This is the only thing which scientists have discovered about this disease in over 100 years of its known existence.

There is no known cure for the disease. It is no respecter of persons and attacks people chiefly between the ages of 25 and 35. There are over 600 known cases of multiple sclerosis now living in the Panhandle.

The narrator of the film who also played a part in the story is a woman who at one time lived in the Panhandle and was a multiple sclerosis victim.

The film shows the beginning symptoms, diagnosis, treatment and ability to lead a useful life after catching the disease, of a particular woman and encouraged the support of the multiple sclerosis campaigns for further research.

Mr. Kilgore is well known in this area. He has represented the U. S. in the Olympic games and has headed the Community Youth Center in Amarillo for many years.

Candidates

Band King and Queen nominees for this year have been selected. Queen candidates are Jimmie Boyd, Ann Jarrett and Pat Hardaway. King nominees are John Winters, Dwayne Pettit and Bonnell Riley. The runoff to select a king and queen will be held later and the winners will be crowned at the annual band banquet.

All-School Twirp Social Presented; Teachers, Students in Floor Shows

Moonbeam McSwine, Daisy Mae and Lil' Abner in life-like cardboard figures "looked upon" the dancers in the all-purpose room of the Canyon Elementary School building March 8. The Twirp Social was held there and the girls "wore the pants" this time.

The art and woodworking departments worked together on the figures. Painting was done by the art class and the woodworking department cut the figures. Different committees consisting of teachers and students worked on plans for the party.

Principal J. E. Miller was making an announcement about a lost book one morning. Bill Cornette kept interrupting Mr. Miller as he tried to squeeze in over the intercom an announcement about the social.

Students and teachers presented the entertainment during intermissions. Faculty members, Mr. Miller, Mr. O. H. Schuette, Mr. G. D.

Inman and Mr. Herman Demus crooned as a barber shop quartet. A student quartet, Richard Purcell, Jimmie Dale Killingsworth, Neal Lemons and Lloyd Mann, sang "I Wish I Was Single Again" and "How Much Would a Woodchuck Chuck?"

A skit was presented by Joy Rose and Gene Powers.

Mrs. Cecil Simms gave a reading entitled "The Widder." Mrs. Dan Sanders, Mrs. T. E. Beard, Miss Marilyn A. Payne, Mrs. Nora Gilmore and Mrs. A. K. Knott presented a skit called "The Teachers of Canyon High School."

Table games, active games and dancing were provided for entertainment. Refreshments of sandwiches, can-

Slides Are Shown To Spanish Class

Roy Barnes, an observer from WT in Miss Marilyn A. Payne's first year Spanish class, provided quite a surprise for the students March 4 when he decided to show them pictures of his visits to Mexico. The special presentation was given in connection with their study of Mexico.

For the past three years he has spent three weeks each summer in Mexico for study and travel. He plans to return this summer and take up studies of Mexican customs and culture in the famed Universidad de Mexico.

His colored slides and talk were presented as a travelogue of his trips.

During his visits he has visited Mexico, D. F. (Federal District, much the same as Washington, D. C.), Vera Cruz, the important sea port; Chihuahua; Puebla; Juarez; Taxco, the famous silver mining town; and Monterrey.

In addition he visited the San Juan Teotihuacan, the historical Aztec ruins and other points of interest in that area. His pictures of the majestic Sierra Madre mountains show the beauty of the heights, great valleys, swift rivers, low hanging clouds and fog.

He has pictures of the farm patches on the side of steep mountains as well. Among his pictures are Popo (Popocatepetl), and The Sleeping Lady (Ixtaccihuatl), two famous volcanoes of Mexico. His pictures of the people include the typical Indian children and the easy going hombre. He told the class of the mammoth statue of President Miguel Aleman which dominates the campus of the University of Mexico.

Mr. Barnes plans to teach Spanish and English upon completion of his studies.

Educated People Combat Soviets; Education, a Guide for the Future

An investment is a laying out of money, capital or interest in some form of property for income or profit. Education is thus an investment in the future. Many high school students hold down jobs and attempt to save money to go to college or maybe to buy a car. By storing up their money as they go along they soon realize their goal.

So it is with education. By storing away knowledge day by day you are insured of a more prosperous, worthwhile future.

Educational investments are different in other aspects though. For instance, when you make an investment with money you do so with the idea that you will get back something of increased value. This is the case with some students seeking good education, but often education is the only thing student are willing to pay for and not get. Education is an intangible thing which is far more valuable than tangible things.

There are various advantages of an education both personal, in an individual's future life, and in the development of an influential nation. A nation is no better than the citizens make it.

In an individual's future life, an education is his best aid to the achievement of his goals. There was a time in our country when one could get by well without an adequate education but that time has long since gone.

From a practical viewpoint we see that in today's world even with a fair college education one has difficulty providing for himself and his family. If one is poorly educated he will be among the first to suffer during hard times.

In applying for jobs as far away as 50 years from now, the record that you are presently making will be taken into consideration. Remember, it is far better to prepare yourself today because regret at not having prepared will be futile in the future.

There are even more valuable advantages of an education than for material purposes. These constitute the personal advantages. Money is a tangible object which can be lost or taken from you, but education is an intangible gain which is more elastic or useful in different ways and thus more valuable.

A good education makes it possible for you to make more friends through more intelligent conversation, regard or consideration of others, and understanding and broader sympathy of others. These qualities must be developed to attain a really good life.

Finally education promotes and aids good citizenship. An educated people is safeguarded against communism and at the same time helps promote democracy. It develops leaders and useful citizens who are valuable to the communities and the world.

It is impossible to stress enough the importance of a good education. Invest your time and effort in obtaining a good education and you may realize a bright future.

Jew, Catholic and Protestant Talk

Pointing out the necessity for brotherhood, harmony and better understanding between the Jewish, Protestant and Catholic religions, Rabbi Gustave F. Falk, a Reform Jew, Rev. Doyle Ragle, pastor of the First Methodist Church, and Msgr. Paul Charcut, a Catholic priest, all spoke briefly March 5 during the brotherhood assembly.

Rabbi Falk, a man educated in psychology and sociology, in addition to other duties also works with boys in Dallas. He added humor to the assembly as he illustrated his points with stories. He quoted the "Golden Rule" in Hebrew. He brought out the fact that we should be an individualist in our religion but that there is no reason to be intolerant to others in their beliefs.

The Rev. Charcut emphasized the culture, traditions and enthusiasm which each religion has given to the other. Because of their interwoven beliefs and heritage there is no need for prejudice, either racial or religious.

The assembly was held in the new gym and was attended by the junior and senior high school students.

contribute $50 to Crusade scholarships.

St. Paul's Church, Abilene, was named as the site for the 1959 annual meeting.

After some discussion concerning the moving of the guild's summer weekend program from Ceta Canyon to Lubbock, delegates voted to keep the session at the camp site.

Featured speaker for the meeting was Mrs. E. U. Robinson of Gallatin, Tenn., chairman of spiritual life cultivation for the Woman's Division.

Mrs. Robinson told the guild women that "We don't enter the Christian life for what it can do for us, but for what we can share."

She said, "People are hungry for that which comes only from Him and we are His witnesses."

Mrs. Robinson emphasized three ideas. First, that "Jesus gave Himself in friendship to all people of all types, classes and conditions, without reservation. He sees us as individuals."

Second, "He possessed that rare quality of empathy, the ability to identify Himself with anyone, anywhere, anytime. When He saw people, He saw them as the people they could become."

Third, "He gave His life in such a self-emptying way that He demonstrated complete love."

She said the greatest opportunities for witnessing are not in the world's capitals, but in the hearts and lives of individuals. She added, "the weary and the heavy laden must be able to come to us and find rest."

"You and I," she said, "are called by God, not only for the saving of our own soul, but to help with the salvation of the world. We are called to discipleship and to witness." She said that as to past achievements or failures, God says the past is past, and that the real test is love—on with the work."

In addition to her address on Saturday night, Mrs. Robinson spoke to the Sunday morning worship service for guilders and the host church congregation. She declared that "the greatest need of our world today is that every person who professes Christ assumes the role of a missionary. Truly God calls for hearts and lives to mind the world that is to be, she said. Truly God calls for hearts and lives to mold the world that is to be. Our time for witness is not tomorrow, but today. Your faith, His power are the only two essentials. The church is not for someone else. The church is you and I, she said. The only battlefield Jesus believed in was the battlefield of the human heart. Our weapons are faith, hope, love, humility. The one who is baptised is the one who is sent and who are sent are ready and willing to witness for such a Lord, she concluded.

Mrs. Lorenzo Wirt gave the invocation.

Green candles set in Irish potatoes were alternated with shamrock decorated top hats filled with yellow jonquils, and connected with entwining ivy. The speaker's table was graced with a massive bouquet of white snapdragons and green carnations accented by a Kelly green bow and streamers reading "Federated Clubs of Canyon."

The Book Worms sang three selections arranged by Mrs. Lee Foster, who accompanied the group on the piano. The sextet is composed of Mrs. Murphy White, Mrs. Avert Lair, Mrs. Bruce Winn, Mrs. H. R. Fulton, Mrs. Truett Hull and Mrs. Michael Morris.

MVI Deadline Rushing Onward

Capt. Alan Johnson of the Motor Vehicle Inspection division of the DPS in this region suggests that all motorists check the windshields of their vehicles and have the cars inspected today if they don't have the current sticker.

If things work out as expected, around 8,000 cars will be inspected between now and April 15, creating quite a last minute rush.

Dear Mrs. Homemaker,

You're probably pretty busy getting your spring cleaning schedule lined up. May we suggest that you don't forget to reorganize your medicine chest at this time.

Medicine chests can become overly cluttered and dangerous, too!

Throw out all unlabeled containers. Don't try to guess at the contents of any bottle. A mistake can be very costly.

If you find any containers with solid residues or cloudy solutions, we suggest that you destroy the contents. These signs usually indicate deterioration.

Check with us—if you care to—as to whether the drug products in your medicine chest are in good order. We shall consider it a privilege to be of service to you.

Canyon Man Believes Hunters Must Furnish Stock To Get Good Returns

By ORVILLE HOWARD

A Canyon resident, who has turned his backyard into a small game reserve, is of the opinion that a hunter must furnish his own quail to have good hunting.

Ed Mickie, 1109 Third Ave., who has been raising game birds for five years, believes in a full-scale stocking program of parent game birds in the Panhandle area and backs up this belief by raising nearly 1,000 birds a year.

With hunting rating next to eating as his favorite pastime, he turned loose more than 400 quail near Parnell and Childress last year, and has raised some 4,000 birds in the past five years.

"I started raising game birds because of the diminished quail population," Mickie said. "I remember hunting on a farm several years ago and flushed one small covey. After stocking the place, I returned the following year to find quail everywhere."

Mickie works in connection with the Texas Game Department on various stocking projects. At the present time, he has several Coturnix quail in his pens, which were obtained by Game Warden Woody Pond of Canyon. Pond, who got the quail from a breeder in Pampa, is planning to turn them loose this spring to test their productivity and hardiness.

According to Pond, the Coturnix, Japanese King Quail, is supposed to multiply much faster than the Bob White. Mickie said the eggs would hatch in a 16-day period, and that the quail should be laying eggs at seven weeks of age. The Coturnix quail is somewhat smaller than the Bob White.

Among the other varieties of game birds found in Mickie's backyard is the Blue Quail. Also adding a bit of color and attraction to the meshed-wire habitat are 32 chukkers and 26 ring-necked pheasants. This is the first year that Mickie has raised any number of pheasants or chukkers. He raised about 1,000 quail during the past year.

Nelda Coffee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Coffee, admires, rather timidly, the colorful ring-necked pheasants found in Ed Mickie's backyard game reserve. Mickie raises the game birds as a spare-time hobby.

Working under the direction of Pond, Mickie says he plans to turn some 400 quail loose this spring, near Claude while the birds are still in the chick stage. In the past the birds have been turned loose after reaching the adult stage. Mickie thinks the death rate of the young birds will be much lower by turning the quail loose at a younger age.

Mickie, who works as a mechanic at the Canyon Motor Company, is well equipped when it comes to sporting equipment. Besides having two healthy looking Pointers, there are two automatics and one pump action shotgun included in his gun collection, along with three

A few dozen Bob White scurry along the meshed-wire habitat located in Ed Mickie's backyard in Canyon. Mickie, who has built some 15 enclosures, has raised more than 4,000 quail in the past five years. He also raises chukkers, upper right-hand corner, and plans to turn his first group loose on open range this spring.

"I made two of my bows out of bois de arc fence posts, with one having a 125 pound pull and the other 50 pound pull," Mickie said. "The lemonwood bow has a 70 pound pull."

He added that maple dowel pins were used for arrows, which made excellent hunting for small game such as rabbits.

Mickie has a state license to sell the game birds, but says that he sells them at just about cost, because most buyers want them to stock their farm or ranch. The birds Mickie turns loose are free of cost to the landowners.

However, he has held a commercial marketing license in the past. He added that he had sold quail to people who just wanted a covey nearby where they could work their dogs.

Speaking as a true sportsman, the 37-year-old mechanic said: "I get my money's worth out of the birds just to have a place and the pleasure to hunt when quail seasons roll around."

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

The state's fiscal cupboard is bare at the moment. By the end of the month it'll probably be about $20,000,000 short, says State Treasurer Jesse James.

Texas' treasury has been running in the red during spring months for several years. Situation corrects itself sometime after April when sizable state tax payments come in. For more than a decade the state has come out solidly in the black by the end of each fiscal period.

This year Treasurer James predicts incoming revenue will wipe out the deficit by May or June.

But there's a difference this year.

Lagging oil revenues have choked off a sizable hunk of expected tax income. Comptroller Robert S. Calvert, the state's official income estimator, sees another — and worse — deficit by next fall. By the end of the present budget period in August, 1959, he estimates the state will have spent $32,000,000 "on the cuff."

This estimate holds even if oil production picks up within the next few months.

Meanwhile, state banks are still cashing the state's warrants and holding them until the state gets money in to pay them.

A Penny Saved

With an eye on the state's depleted coffers, the Legislative Budget Board is asking state departments to look for ways to pare expenses. Board's letter calls on department heads to "review" each activity in your organization to determine if there is anything that can be eliminated without detriment to the citizens of Texas.

Defense Need Cited

It won't be just Texas that will suffer if oil importing continues, says Railroad Commission Chairman Olin Culberson.

In an Austin speech to members of Texas Service Stations Association, Culberson took the usual swat at imports for draining some $1.

000,000 a day from Texas economy.

But above this, he said, is the danger to national security if the domestic oil industry is strangled and the country becomes dependent on oil fields "half a world away."

"It's suicidal," said Culberson. He doesn't see prospect of cheaper gasoline from imports, said the Railroad Commissioner. Europeans, who get all their oil from the Middle East, pay from 80 cents to $1.10 per gallon, he said.

No Trend Yet

Texas Employment Commission's latest report showed a slight drop in number of jobless—from 79,604 to 79,079.

But the change was not enough to indicate a "turning point," the hoped-for spring upswing in job activities.

TEC's figures include only those unemployed persons covered by unemployment insurance.

Difference in View

Texas Supreme Court is considering the arguments of rival groups of optometrists who don't see eye to eye on advertising.

One group, associated with Texas State Optical, contends a law passed by the last Legislature prohibits eye glass advertisements mentioning price. Opponents from Lee Optical declare the section of the law limiting advertising is unconstitutional because it wasn't mentioned in the caption of the bill.

Suit is part of a long history of legal maneuvering between competing optometry firms.

Loan Study Set

Small loan study group of the Legislative Council will hold a series of fact-finding hearings over the state. First will be April 4 in Houston.

Numerous organizations and officials have, for some years, called for an overhaul of loan laws, charging that small borrowers have been exploited. State Junior Bar of Texas set the "loan shark problem" as its principal target at its recent meeting in Austin.

Sen. Abraham Kazen, chairman of the study committee, said any interested person with information or recommendations is invited to appear before the committee.

Annual Sessions Urged

House Speaker Waggoner Carr of Lubbock wants Texas voters to approve a proposed constitutional amendment to provide annual sessions of the Legislature.

Carr is campaigning over the state for re-election to the speakership. Voter approval of annual sessions also is being urged.

Budgeting on an annual basis would be much more businesslike and efficient, he said, than on the present two-year plan.

Salary Squabble Flares

Plans to supplement the $15,000 salary to get a qualified executive director for the state hospitals and special schools has bumped into a lawmaker's indignation.

Sen. William S. Fly of Victoria said the supplement would violate the appropriation bill he helped to write. He said the $15,000 salary was purposely set below that of several other staff members to reflect that the executive director was "serving" and not "over" the higher paid staff members.

Six applicants for one of the higher paid jobs reportedly turned it down because of the "unworkable" situation.

Taint That Tainted

No point in throwing away money, says the GOP, even if it's "tainted" oil money.

Texas Republican State Committee, meeting in Austin, voted to use $100,000 raised by National Committeeman Jack Porter for its state budget. National GOP would not touch the money after Eastern newspapers headlined Porter's fund seeking letter which reminded Texas oil and gas men they needed GOP support to pass the natural gas bill.

State committee gave Porter a vote of confidence in a resolution saying that New Dealers had distorted his intent.

Short Snorts

Texans' driving habits seem to have improved thus far in 1958. Reports (not final) from the Department of Public Safety for the first nine weeks of '58 show a traffic death toll of 267 compared to 319 for the same period last year.

Almost twice as many degrees are awarded in teacher education than in any other field in Texas state colleges and universities. Business administration, liberal arts, engineering, sciences follow in that order. Listing is by the Commission on Higher Education.

State revenue collections from liquor sales dropped $300,000 in January below collections for the comparable month a year ago. Liquor Control Board figures show. January collections this year totaled $2,201,306.

Governor Daniel, as hard-beset as any Texan in this year of flu sieges, took to his bed for the third time. Members of the governor's family also have had the flu.

Fairview Breezes

A student preacher held services at Fairview Sunday morning. There were no services Sunday evening.

Nan Early Shipman visited her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Wesley.

Oscar Read was taken to Neblett Hospital by ambulance Friday afternoon. His condition is reported as critical.

Mrs. J. H. Holly suffered a stroke Friday morning and was taken to Neblett Hospital by ambulance. At last report, she was still unconscious. Mrs. Holly, the mother of Mrs. Clayton Devin, has been a resident of Fairview community for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Shipman and Mrs. Ora Evans have been helping Mrs. Oscar Read and James care for Mr. Read.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brown and daughters, Faye, Margaret and Shirley, of Odessa visited Friday evening through Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wesley.

Mrs. Charles Sutton was checked by her doctor Saturday.

LaQuita Patterson was honored with a bridal shower in the Serena Bryan home Friday afternoon. LaQuita will be married March 28 in the Clovis, N. M., home of Brother Landtroop, a former pastor here. The couple will make their home in Amarillo. Nan Early Shipman and Patricia Patterson served. A nice crowd attended despite the muddy roads.

Mrs. Albert Legate of Whitherald has sent word that she has sufficiently improved to be released from the hospital last Saturday.

G. E. and Woodrow Wesley took stock to the Livestock Auction in Amarillo Tuesday.

The children attending the Happy schools had a vacation Friday while the teachers attended a meeting in Amarillo.

Helping Mrs. Richard Evans quilt Tuesday were Mrs. E. W. Schaeffer, Mrs. Rafor Shipman and Mrs. J. W. Wesley. Mrs. Alvin quilted on Monday.

Richard Evans went to his farm near Adrian Tuesday. He returned the same day.

A new fence around the Wayside cemetery is necessary. The planning committee is soliciting funds for a chain-link fence. If you wish to make a contribution, give it to one of the committee. Hollis Shipman and Clifford Stevens are among the committee members.

The great comedian-entertainer, Victor Borge, says the key to an interesting life is the ability to enjoy every minute.

Enlarging on his philosophy, he is quoted as saying a walk across the street can change one's life. In fact, every second can change it, and people would find life more stimulating if they'd just realize this.

The cheerful capitalist has reason to be optimistic — but then, haven't most of us? He came to the United States from Denmark with no money, and he couldn't speak English. But he had a good sense of humor, and an ability to play the piano. Making the most of these two talents, he now is several times a millionaire. Last month he is reported to have received $200,000 for one television program. As a hobby, he raises Cornish hens and sells them at about 90 cents a pound, which has added another million.

Most of us don't have the golden touch, and it may be that complete financial independence has had much to do with Borge's zest for life. However, every rich man isn't happy, so it could be just the man's nature to enjoy his good fortune.

If we had been stranded in a strange land penniless, and not knowing the language, and had overcome the handicap to gain fame, maybe we too could stay on tiptoe about life's challenges.

Borge believes in setting goals, he says, and that nothing is just blind accident. Maybe the secret of his vibrant philosophy is found in that statement. Interesting things to do are all about us. It's setting goals for ourselves, and having a purpose, that keeps us excited about life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

The Canyon Chamber of Commerce

ARE THE OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS PAID FOR THEIR WORK?

The only paid employee is the Executive Secretary. Officers, directors, committee chairmen, and committee members all serve without pay. The time devoted by these people is gratis, and for the benefit of Canyon and Randall County.

WHO DIRECTS THE CANYON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE?

The membership and a Board of Directors consisting of 12 members for the board. The Chamber of Commerce directors are elected by the membership with each board member elected to serve three years.

Suggestions from members on projects, policies or other matters of interest, are always welcome and appreciated. All members, regardless of the dues they pay, have the same vote, same privileges, and the same opportunity for service.

Officers of the Chamber of Commerce, consisting of a President, Vice-President, Treasurer, and Executive Secretary, are elected annually.

The Executive-Secretary, who is a paid employee, is responsible to the entire membership for carrying out the administrative functions of the Chamber of Commerce.

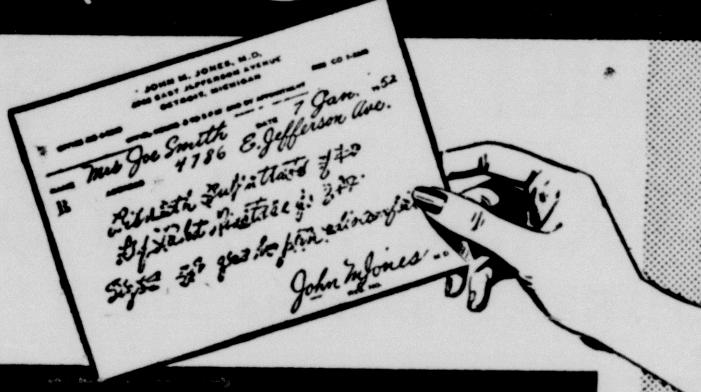

HOW DOES THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WORK?

Primarily through committees of your Chamber of Commerce. The needs of Canyon and Randall County are listed in the form of a Program of Work and committees are named to carry out the various projects. Some projects can be completed in a short time, some during the year, and others over a period of years. The Chamber of Commerce should not be taken for a social club. Your Chamber of Commerce is an action organization — a business institution dedicated to those projects that will provide a more abundant life for all people of Canyon and Randall County.

WHAT ACTUAL BENEFITS DO MEMBERS RECEIVE?

Numerous services are available to members; however, the real benefits come indirectly through the continuous development of Canyon and Randall County. An active, well supported Chamber of Commerce program provides for increased income for farmers, more business for merchants and professional people, better workers and greater production for industry and more job opportunities for the working people.
